

Phone service is the property of the owner just like thier home and car. Telemarketers have no right to invade someone's person property in an effort to sell them something they obviously don't want to begin with.